

CHOP-Penn Proteomics Core

Fee Schedule

Every project the CHOP-Penn Proteomics Core provides service for requires the customized combination of wide-ranging itemized procedures. The extent of such combinations varies greatly depending on the nature of the samples and analytical goals of the project. For new collaborations and projects, it is best to contact the core director for guidance on experimental design and sample procurement/delivery.

At this time and for other recurring sample submissions the core staff can provide a detailed estimate of the scope of work required along with associated costs and approximate time to completion.

Because there are unique challenges associated with each sample type or project costs may vary depending on what additional procedures are required for successful completion of the analysis by mass spectrometry. Most of these additional considerations can be discussed with the investigator during initial consultation and at the time of sample submission.
